About

I am a Software Developer with eight years of experience, who has proven background in designing and implementing complex apps and systems. I have expert knowledge of the SW development life cycle, including design, coding, testing, debugging, deployment and maintenance. I'm highly self-organized, with a proven ability to handle full SW development/release cycle, and particularly passionate about app architectures and automation of work processes. I'm keen on sharing my knowledge with the rest of the programming community through articles on Medium , as well as contributing to the open source projects on GitHub. I'm a quick learner with a thirst to expand my already vast knowledge, and I excel at conceptualizing and implementing new and innovative ideas to help organisations reach their goals.
